ACTION NOT INVENTION.

Professor Wilson openly charges that Colonel Roosevelt is the candidate of the United States Steel Corporation for President, and some Republican newspapers echo the charge.

We have no sympathy with the Roosevelt movement, and no intent to defend the United States Steel Corporation in its efforts to secure a two-party institution on the part of opposition organs. It is just as much in the public interest to see the Roosevelt movement as it is to see the United States Steel Corporation.

Candor compels the statement that no evidence has yet been produced to justify Professor Wilson's charge. It is true that one George W. Peckham, presumed to have some financial interest in the United States Steel Corporation, is backing the Roosevelt movement, but it is also true that Henry C. Frick, known to be largely and actively interested in that great corporation which was the child of his brain, made a special trip to Pittsburgh a few days ago to personally register in order that he may vote this fall, and that he declared upon that occasion his intention of voting for President Taft and the Republican ticket.

Leave the inventions and the platitudes to Professor Wilson. The Republican cause is a good one. Let good Republicans stick to it. All it needs is aggressive presentation. Its friends have slept while the enemy stirred. Let them not lend themselves to invention, but give themselves to action.

THE LINCOLN EMANCIPATOR.

Professor Wilson journeyed to Lincoln, Neb., a few days ago, and fell lovingly and luxuriously upon the neck of Colonel Bryan, and for a space the peace-loving Professor and the peace-loving Colonel mingled their emotions while the wild asses of the Plains of the Platte brayed an accompaniment in blatant and unbecoming fashion. And when all the people had gathered about, this episode in history words the New Jersey sweet:

"I want to express the very deep pleasure it gives me to find myself beside Mr. Bryan, who is free to give the people of the United States, and, in my opinion, Mr. Bryan get us free. I think no one can have followed the course of events in this extraordinary convention at Baltimore without sharing that opinion."

It is a genuine pleasure to know that the Professor has been set free by the Lincoln (Nebraska) Emancipator from the bondage of "Princeton Special." Princeton, which probably prompted him to write in 1907 that letter to a Western friend expressing the hope that some effective means might be found to knock the present Paramount Liberator into a cocked hat.

There is a suspicion that Professor Wilson is more bound now than he was in 1907.

A FINE DISTINCTION.

The State Department of Health is drawing some rather fine distinctions. It decides that the public schools are not under the jurisdiction of the health authorities, but that the State Department has original authority over them. School districts must employ their own health officers and disinfect their own school houses.

The law and the health boards were created to give the latter ample powers and we are inclined to think that they do not hit at the school house steps. If they do, it is the fault of the health authorities, not of the State Department. In the matter of the conservation of the public health it is most unwise to have a number of concurrent and often conflicting authorities.

THE SUPERBIA INQUIRY.

The recovery of the bodies of the unfortunate miners who lost their lives in the Superbia mine when it was flooded by surface water in a cloud-burst this summer discloses the rather startling and altogether horrible fact that they died of starvation or starvation and not by drowning as had been supposed.

The coroner and his jury will doubtless inquire closely into this circumstance, as it is their duty to do, and make such recommendations concerning possible safeguards against a repetition of the disaster as may prove reasonable and proper. The Connelville operators may be depended to accept any suggestions thus made and perhaps to add to them.

Bill Flynn's Progressive party spent all the money that Pennsylvania saw in the primary campaign of 1912, but of course it was spent by an honest politician in the interest of Pure Politics.

Our electric light is very dependable, but candles are handy things to have about the house.

The extension of the Western Maryland and Lake Erie railroad combination up the Indian creek valley, down the Ligonier valley and over the ridges into the Indian coal fields has been given above the identity of a rumor, but the rumor is persistent.

The Connelville burglars are no gentlemen. They eat apple pie without cheese.

The two magazine writers who circulated the story that Banker John Pierpont Morgan referred to President Roosevelt in rather uncomplimentary terms, when in 1901 the forehead of Ted was shooting campaign contributions from the heads of the Wall Street Teils, is denied by Wayne MacVough.

the alleged author of the tale, who declares that the magazine man in usual got it wrong. MacVough says he never discussed the matter with Morgan, but that similar conversation he did have with Henry McK. Twombly. The modern race of Revelers and Enlighteners should never travel by its own light. It's too dim and uncertain.

Shall Moore be so scarce in and around Connelville that local hunters have to go to far-off Canada to find them.

The fine October days seem to add to the troubles of the Truant Officer.

It has developed that a bear-fire of disastrous possibilities was due to the carelessness of a cigarette-smoking errand boy. The boy and the cigarette make a bad combination.

B. & O. officers have a couple of dark suspicions in connection with recent freight car robberies.

This harmless preparation will digest anything you eat and overcome a sour, gassy or out-of-order stomach five minutes afterwards.

If your meals don't sit comfortably, or what you eat lies like a lump of lead in your stomach, or if you have heartburn, that is a sign of indigestion.

Get from your pharmacist a fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and take a dose just as soon as you can. There will be no sour risings, no belching of undigested food mixed with acid, no stomach gas or heartburn, fullness or heavy feeling in the stomach, nausea, debilitating headaches, dizziness or intestinal griping.

This will all go, and, besides, there will be no sour food left over in the stomach to poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Pape's Diapepsin is a certain cure for out-of-order stomachs, because it takes hold of your food and digests it just the same as if your stomach wasn't there.

Relief in five minutes from all stomach misery is waiting for you at any drug store.

These large fifty-cent cases contain more than sufficient to thoroughly cure almost any case of dyspepsia, indigestion or any stomach disorder.—Adv.

Suffering Fierce, Blisters Like
Raw Meat. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured in Six Weeks.

1901 Straub Lane, Pittsburgh, N. S. Pa.—"I was troubled with a skin disease for a half year. It was just like pins when it started all over my body, arms and legs. The itching and burning were awful. My arms got blotchy on them as big as a half dollar and all sore and red. The suffering I went through was fierce. The blisters were just like raw meat and the pain I had to endure was enough to drive any man wild."

"I tried all kinds of treatments and was told it was poison. I stood the pain for six or eight months. Nothing would help it until I got Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I did not get a good night's sleep from the time it started until I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. The first time I washed with Cuticura Soap and applied the Cuticura Ointment I found improvement. I was entirely cured in six weeks." (Signed) P. John Dunne, March 18, 1912.

If you wish a skin clear of pimples, blackheads and other annoying eruptions, hands soft and white, hair clean and glossy, and scalp free from dandruff and itching, begin to-day the regular use of Cuticura Soap for the toilet, bath and shampoo, assisted by an occasional light application of Cuticura Ointment. In most cases patterns and cloths are exclusive with us, and, most likely, only two or three of a style.

A DONOR OF LAND IS DRIVEN OUT OF SCOTTTDALE TOWN

Your Name on a Petition and Then a Nice, Big Lot in New York.

LOOKED TOO GOOD TO BE TRUE

Child Fatally Burned in Play-Funeral of George Reed—Death of Mrs.
Elsie Bihlman—Joe Doolley Was Operated on—Other Notes of News.

Special to The Courier.

SCOTTTDALE, Oct. 9.—A philanthropist was traveling with the representations of materialized Uncle Sam giving away land, reached Scottdale and left on Tuesday afternoon, when Chief of Police Frank McCudden, who had listened to the glowing verbal prospectus of the stranger, stepped from his hiding place and in dramatic tones told School Director O. A. Rush, "Don't sign those papers."

A moment more and Director Rush's "John Hancock" might have embellished the document the stranger held forth, and again the name might not have been placed there. It was this way: Mr. Rush conducts a grocery store in the upper end of town and the stranger came to Mr. Rush's store and told him he represented a big corporation in the east that in return for the mere signing of a petition it was giving everyone who signs a nice big parcel of land. Just like that. You sign the petition. The company for that only gives you a good lot, 140,000, or something that size. It doesn't matter much about the figures, but it was a valuable lot, children of influence and worth were given such lots. No, it did not cost one penny there were no chances attached to the process, nothing to do but write your names. You get a good lot in an eastern State for a mere trifle. Only in this case the fellow who can write set the land; they don't need to be rich.

Mr. Rush had lived long enough that he knew that people who get things for nothing, but the matter puzzled him. He made an excuse that he was busy earning his daily bread or something and the prospect of a lot was so good that if the man would come back in the afternoon he would take the lot. Mr. Straker wanted him to sign right there, but Mr. Rush's horse was fuming outside to take a trip to the freight station and so the signing could not take place just then.

Mr. Rush went and told Chief McCudden and invited the latter to come to town at the hour the stranger said he would come back. The chief came there, but hidden behind the door of another room.

The chief says that contrary to his expectations, the man came back to town and told him a big railroad company was putting a line through some big place in New York, but they had to have a petition with 15,000 names on it to get a city built on their line. They did not want to New York to have all the good things for signing a petition to get something or other and they were gathering the property owners around throughout the country.

The fellow talked very convincingly, and then waited Mr. Rush to sign, when the chief stepped in on the scene and ordered the fellow to get away from town.

The chief said that the stranger turned on with a new and different plan, and after trying to make some explanations, got his coat and suit case and left in the direction of Greensburg. There used to be, years and years ago, a line of the old Pennsylvania cultural magazine, "Sign no papers for strangers."

FUNERAL THURSDAY
The funeral of George Reed, the noted editor, who died on Tuesday morning, will be held from the home of his daughter, Mrs. Ida H. Thomas, of Locust avenue, at 2:30, on Thursday afternoon.

CHILD BURNED.
Mildred, the three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Prentiss, was fatally burned while at play about noon on Tuesday. The child's thin dress was burned almost off her, and her face and arms were badly scorched. She was taken to the Mt. Pleasant hospital.

OPERATED ON.
Joseph M. Doolley, of Doolley & Bros., the clothing store of Broadway, was operated on at the Mt. Pleasant hospital for the removal of the appendix, on Tuesday night, the case being in charge of Dr. Vincent Hagan, of Evanson. The appendix was grown to an abnormal length, almost seven inches, the doctors said, and in the hospital, where a shock operation had been performed, it was said that no appendix had ever approached this one in length. It was twisted and grown a foot at a number of places, and Dr. Doolley's condition was serious. This is the third member of the family to undergo this operation during the year, and the fifth person from the same house in the last couple of years to have an operation for appendicitis.

THE TIME TEST.

Connelville People Cannot Demand Stronger Proof of Merit.

The test of time is what tells the tale. The public is quick to discover misrepresentations and merit, alone will stand the test of time. Long ago, many grateful people in this locality publicly endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills; they do so still. Would these statements be confirmed if Doan's Kidney Pills did not possess lasting merit? The following testimony should convince the most skeptical Connelville reader.

Mrs. Carrie E. Albright, 62 S. Duquesne Ave., Uniontown, Pa., says: "I cannot say too much in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills for they have been of the greatest benefit to me. In October, 1907, I gave a public statement of their praise and now I am pleased to confirm that endorsement. I use Doan's Kidney Pills whenever I have backache or any other trouble from my kidneys and I never fail to get relief. Other members of my family have procured Doan's Kidney Pills and have been benefited through their use."

The lower sketch shown a rolling brim shape, with a band of fancy embroidery and feather ornaments.

"ZIG ZAG ALLEY." The next attraction at the Soisson Theatre will be "Zig Zag Alley," which comes Monday, October 14. A mammoth organization that in every song bears the stamp of modern progress and liberal managerial methods; the program is a lengthy and brilliant one, composed exclusively of artists of the high grade, which includes vaudeville stars, comedy experts and 20 singers and dancing beauties, described as genuine "Heart Breakers." The program is divided into two sections, opening the first act with a jumble of jest and song, called "The Jamboree of Zig Zag Alley," one of the most complete and extensive musical productions ever seen with a like organization. The songs and music are all new and specially written, while the costumes, scenic and electrical effects are said to be truly superb. Some of the best known artists in the company are Richy W. Crug, the well known German comedian and producer, supported by the following: Lillian Stevens, Al Morton, Lotta Baker, Ben Hilbert, Jack Harter and Ethelyn Grace. The venture of the company is complete, embracing lavish costuming for a chorus of chaps, handsome girls, who have sung and danced themselves into the favor of every audience before whom they have appeared.

 "But you can't do this vile thing, since the world began I know that."

"The spell of his millions is on me."

vain, weak, ignorant women have sold themselves to men they could not love for money, rank and luxury. But you are not of that breed, Nan. You are the typical American girl. You represent women whose hearts have been pure, whose lives have been clean, who have kept burning in the hearts of men the great faith of the soul. Respect for women has been one of the foundations of our moral life. The woman who sells herself to buy bread stands higher in the moral world than you." He hesitated.

"Go on, Jim, say the worst. And still I'm going to do it."

"Knowing full well that no ceremony of church or state, no priest or judge, no pealing of organ or pomp or pageantry can make this thing a marriage."

The lover dropped in silence to the window seat and buried his face in his hands in a paroxysm of emotion beyond control. At length he rose and looked at the girl he loved long and tenderly.

"God in heaven! It's inconceivable when I look into your beautiful face! Have you no pity in your heart?"

The full lips smiled a cruel little smile.

"Men are strong, Jim. They can stand hard blows. You come of fighting stock. I know that you will survive. I'm sorry to hurt you, Jim, but I must do this. The big world is waiting how fast I'm going to call me, and I'm going."

"And'Brien is this big world! If you will throw me over for money, can't you wait until a real man comes with it? It wouldn't be so bad if I felt you had chosen one who was my equal physically and mentally in culture and breeding—but Brown?"

"You underestimate his ability. You may hate him, but he is a man of genius."

"He is everything you loathe and yet you are going to marry him. You are giving up too easily. Brown has only a couple of millions, and he may lose them. Don't hold yourself so cheap. If you were on the block for sale I'd give a million for each dimple in your cheeks. The smile that plays about your lips should bring millions. Your deep dark eyes, I swear, are worth a million each."

"Kiss, Jim, dear, we must go now. I can't stand any more. There's a hint."

"Yes, I know. Forgive me."

Without another word he led her from the place, closed the little door quietly and returned to her home.

Alone inside the parlor they stood in silence a moment, and she took his hand in hers.

"I'm sorry, but it must be goodbye. Your love has been a sweet and wonderful thing in my life."

"And you throw it aside as a worthless rag."

"No," she answered, smiling. "It shall be mine always. Goodbye."

Strut shook his head and firmly set his jaws. A grim temptation flashed through his imagination. If he should accept it might be the one thing which would prevent Nan's betrayal of her love at the altar. Might be the power of his personality, the hypnotic force of his yearning passion and will, stop the ceremony? In the moment of deathlike silence which should follow the minister's words asking if there were any cause known why these two should not be made one, might not a single movement of his body at that moment, a group of pain, a sob, a cry of agony in a supreme act of his will, cause the white figure to reel and fall at his feet? It was possible. But it would be too cheap. It would be a worthless victory, a victory of the flesh without the spirit, and he refused to take the body without the soul.

With a groan he turned to Brown: "It's no use talking, Cal, I've made up my mind. I won't do it."

"Well, if you won't you won't," the little man said with a sigh. "At least you'll come to the church. For God's sake, let me get a glimpse of one friend's face! I'll be sworn to death. You know, I'm not used to this."

Stuart smiled:

"All right, I'll be there."

But when the faithful morning came Stuart was stunned by the feeling of incredible despair which crept into his heart. The day was chill and damp. Dull, grayish, half black clouds rolled over the city from the sea—clouds that hung low and wet over the cold pavements without breaking into rain.

He knew that Nan was as superstitious as the old black woman of the south who had nursed her. Aunt Sarah had come to New York for the wedding of her "baby." Stuart thought of the old saying, "Happy is the bride the sun shines on." As the hour of noon approached despair slowly settled over his heart.

How could he reconcile himself to the horrible reality? A marriage deal, cold, vulgar to such a man—this little tobacco stained, head eyed woman.

He rose, breathing hard and brushed a tear from his eyes—a tear that had come unbidden in spite of his iron will.

His heart fairly shrieked its cry of despair. He moved mechanically toward the church and walked from his revels to find himself jammed in a solid mass of humanity. Never before had he realized the utter vulgarity of a public wedding. He forced his way into the side door and stood waiting the arrival of the bride and groom.

When Brown came the sight of him raised the slumbering devil in Stuart. The excitement of his triumph had evidently steadied the little man's nerves. Never had his shuffling figure looked so slippery and plausible.

He extended his slender hand and touched Stuart's in passing. To save his life the lawyer could not repress a shudder. In that moment he could have committed murder with joy. The agony of defeat was on him. He felt in that moment his kinship with all the rebels and disinherited of the earth.

At last the bride came and the surprised choir moved slowly and solemnly down the aisle through a sea of eager faces as the great organ pealed forth the first bars of the wedding march from "Lohengrin."

Nan was leaning on the arm of a stranger he had never seen before, an uncle from the west. She was pale, deathly pale, and walked with a hesitating movement as though weak from illness. Suddenly his heart went out to her in a flood of pity and tenderness. He tried to make her feel this, but she passed without a glance. She had not seen him.

Stuart listened to the ceremony with a vague impersonal interest, as if it were something going on in another world. A single question was burning itself into his brain—the price of a woman! "Have we all our price?" he asked, searching deep into his own soul. Something pathetic in the white face of the bride had touched the deepest source of his being.

High School Six Weeks' Term Ends. Pupils of Connelldale High School will complete the six weeks' work, Friday, and will be given their report cards. Principal Smith, today, declined to comment upon the work.

Despair. To the very dawn of Nan's wedding day Stuart had refused to give up hope.

Featherman Furniture Co.
and Grant Dull Suffer
Damage by Blaze.

Ten minutes after 1,400 pounds of hay had been stored in the loft, the stable of Grant Dull at Grape and Mountain alleys was ablaze at 9:30 o'clock, this morning. The flames shot upwards in a seething mass, and it was but a few minutes until the Featherman furniture warehouse, adjoining the stable, was ablaze.

Three or four streams played on the furniture warehouse while the firemen placed ladders against the front doors and forced entrance. Several dozen chairs on the third floor and mattress on the second floor, which impeded the work of the fire-fighters, were thrown to the street. The fire was confined largely to the second and third floors of the warehouse. The roof of the building was destroyed.

Featherman's, it was said at the furniture store, had received a large amount of fall stock which was stored in the warehouse the last week. Included in the shipments were beds, mattresses, chairs and other furniture. Fe. Featherman, proprietor of the store, is in Chicago, buying additional stock. He was expected home today. He has been notified of the fire.

HOW BOSTON COPPED FIRST WORLD'S GAME FROM N. Y. GIANTS

Initial Contest for Championship of Earth Won by Red Sox.

TESRAU DRIVEN FROM MOUND

Crack Pitcher for Giants Knocked Out in Seventh Inning—Seizure of Thousands of Fans Intense as Devore Felts for Home.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—The d d tailed story of yesterday's Boston-New York game follows:

Tesreau, one of the biggest men on the ball field, hurled the first ball to the plate and Klem called it a ball. Hooper, the first Red Sox, waited on the strike and was rewarded with a base on ball. He took second and slid into Yerkes and Mr. Klem's out, both of which were grounders. Tesreau was left on the path when Lewis sent a high fly to Snodgrass.

Wood got his "smoke" ball hit at the jump when Devore, the first New Yorker, stepped to the plate and struck him out. Doyle caught Wood's pitching but he shot a grounder right into the waiting paw of Heinie Wagner, who threw the New York captain out at first. Snodgrass brought the stands to their feet by crashing a single over second the first hit and the crowd cheered when Wood passed Murray, but the enthusiasm was short-lived, for Merkle popped out to Wagner.

In the second inning Boston again got its first batter on first through Fletcher fumbling Gardner's grounder. Stahl hit to Tesreau who turned swiftly and threw Gardner out at second. Stahl reaching first base. Herzog, trying to steal second, Stahl was thrown out. Wagner was given his base on balls and Doyle followed by sending a high fly to Murray.

There was very little action in New York's inning. Herzog sent up a pop fly that Stahl captured and Myers and Fletcher struck out. Joe Wood was given a fine reception by the crowd as he slowly walked to the plate in the third inning. He waited patiently and received a hit on balls and Hooper sent him down to second on a neat sacrifice. Tesreau to Merkle. Yerkes again went out. Doyle to Merkle. Wood taking third, where he remained as Lewis closed the inning. After Speaker had been purposely passed, with a high fly that Fletcher had to run back and to get.

New York's biggest inning of the game did not open auspiciously. Tesreau the first up in the third, was out on strikes. Devore had a "lucky" and got four hits and a walk. Later pulled up in the third base when a pop fly Doyle put up a high fly that gave him two bases. Wood appeared to be weakening but he stuck to it at his task and fooled Snodgrass into striking out.

The excitement among the fans at this time was intense. Devore felt it to go home, but Wood paid no attention to him. Murray slid to center field, bringing both Doyle and Doyle home with the first runs of the game. Speaker threw home to head off Doyle at the plate but he was too late and Murray was trying to take second on the throw-in, was thrown out by Doyle, ending the inning. Murray was wildly cheered by the crowd as he watered out to right field.

It was one two three for the first time in the fourth inning. Tesreau was pitching in good form. Gardner fouled to Herzog. Stahl struck out and Wagner sent up a foul to Merkle. For New York Merkle opened the inning by fanning. Herzog lifted a single to center field and went to second.

and on Meyers' weak grounder that Wood got and shut over to Stahl ahead of the infield. Fletcher struck out for the second time. The fifth inning was also barren of results, the pitching of the two slabs being of the highest quality. Cady was an easy out. Doyle to Merkle. Wood rolled an easy grounder to Merkle that the latter scooped up and lunched the bag and Hooper fell a victim to strikes.

Wagner, the first man up for New York, was compelled to take off his cap to acknowledge the cheers of the crowd as he came to bat in the fifth. He struck out. Devore sent a high one to Lewis and Lutz. Doyle again brought the fans to their feet by shooting a single over third which Gardner knocked down and could not handle quickly. Doyle rounded first as Gardner got the ball and was thrown out at second trying to stretch the hit into a double, Wagner taking the out.

Yerkes flew out to Snodgrass in the sixth. Speaker waited until he got a good ball and then drove it to deep left center. Snodgrass sprinted after the ball and Devore, seeing that the center fielder apparently had the ball, stopped. Snodgrass ran with the ball and was only able to get his finger tip on it and the sphere rolled toward the center field wall. When the ball was returned to the infield Speaker was on third. The Boston outfielder then came home on Lewis' easy out. Doyle to Merkle. Gardner struck out.

New York's sixth inning was quickly over. Wagner fumbled Snodgrass' grounder. In attempting the sacrifice throw he sent up a little pop fly that Stahl caught in and doubled up Snodgrass at first. Wood taking the toss. The play was so quickly made that it was thought by some that Stahl had made the double play unassisted, but the official scorer agreed that they had been made by Stahl and Wood. Merkle ended the inning with a fly to Wagner.

Then came the big seventh inning when Boston forced to the front as they led by scoring three runs and driving Tesreau from the box. The New York rooters shouted for their favorites to do something in the seventh but the National Leagueers were unmoved to the occasion. Herzog, using a groin when he struck out, Myers was hit by a pit head ball but a moment later was fanned at second by Fletcher. Yerkes to Wagner. Merkle hitting for Tesreau, flew out to Lewis.

In the eighth inning with Crandall pitching Lewis went out Fletcher to Merkle and Gardner and Stahl struck out. The Giants in their half of the eighth also were quickly disposed of. Devore and Doyle both went out. Wagner to Stahl and Snodgrass sent a pop fly to Gardner.

Wagner opened the ninth inning for the Red Sox with a striking double to left. He went down to third on Cady's sacrifice. Herzog to Merkle and was held there while Hooper sent up a little fly to Doyle.

Then followed the dramatic climax when the Giants made a run and failed to win on what promised to be a successful rally. It was learned tonight that Wagner, the Boston shortstop, hurt his hand when Murray slid into second and was held out by Wagner in the third inning. Wagner continued playing, however.
